

Student Representative Report Isaac Hall

This month many things have gone on with the students. The students took the exit exam. When I asked them how they felt about the tests, they said that it left them drained. Some of the students are confused about who exactly this test affects. The class to whom this test affects, has changed from when I originally took the test.

Also since the last report the basketball teams have played some games. The boys have continued to destroy their opponents, and they feel that they have a really good chance to win the regional tournament. The girls have not shared in as much of the success as the boys have had. But they said they feel like they have learned a lot this year, and next year they may be a state contending team.

This past Tuesday I spoke with some of the wrestlers about travel. They feel that they do not travel enough, and they are saying that the basketball teams travel too much. I am not really the person to talk to about this problem, but I told them about possible travel cuts for next year, and how everyone could be affected. They still believe its unfair, but instead of complaining, they are going to do fundraising.

I feel that I may have been misunderstood at the meeting with the city council. When I said that they might have trouble finding interested students, I meant the first couple years are going to be hard to find candidates. After the council gets the students attention, they will have no trouble getting the students involved. I recommend that they just make the student reps feel like their input matters, even if they don't have a real vote. Anyway...that's what happening with the students.
